CXXV EDITION

CUMBERLAND COLLEGE

OF TENNESSEE

Lebanon, Tennessee

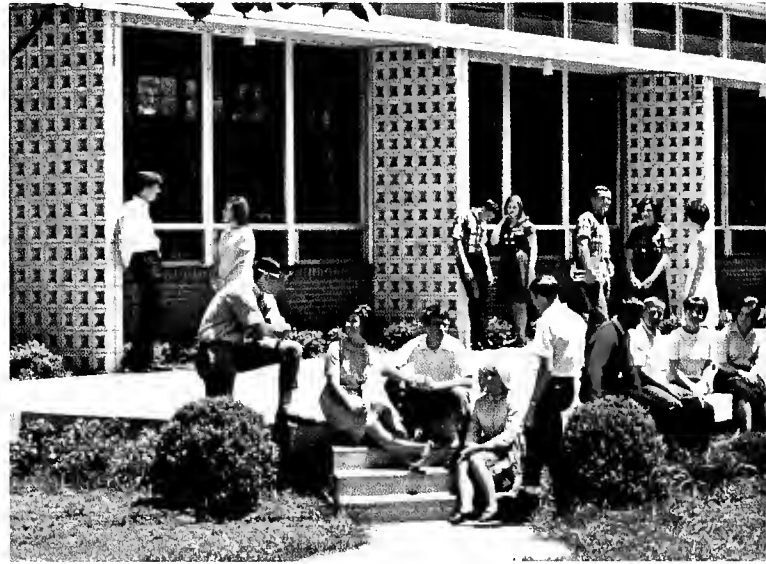

In the beginning, Cumberland was but an empty campus dominated by the massive impressiveness of Memorial Hall . . .

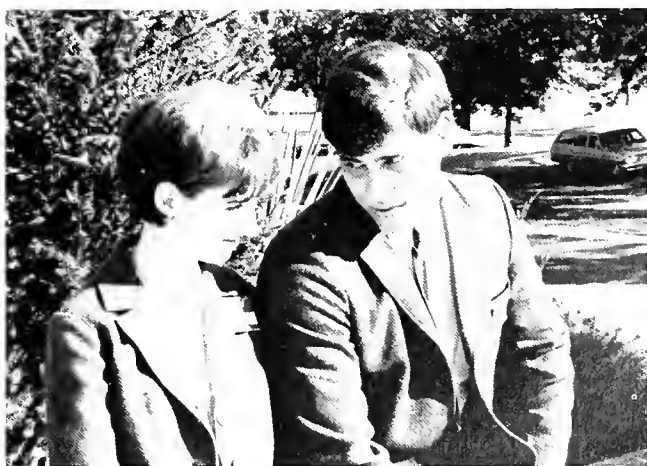

but soon we were to give her a personality . . .

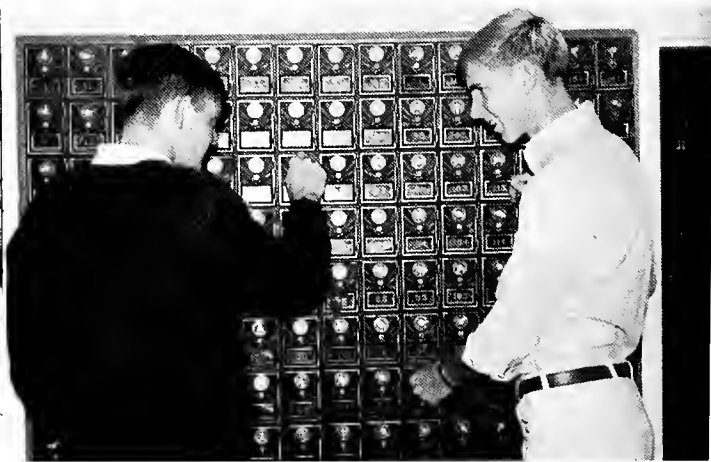

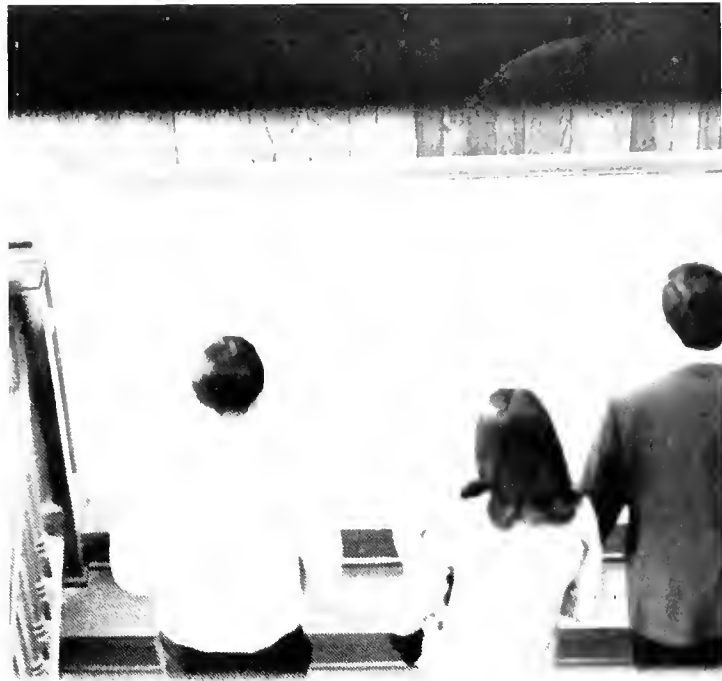

—and the excitement of new faces and surroundings gave way to the familiarity of daily routine . . .

spiced by the diversion of extra-curricular activities and the formation of lasting friendships.

At last mid-quarter deficiencies and the advent of final exams find us a more serious lot realizing the true purpose of our sojourn here . . .

. . . and another graduation brings this man's dream one step closer to becoming a reality.

We, the 1967 PHOENIX staff, present the following pages as testimony that after one hundred twenty-five years Cumberland has at last arisen . . .

"To the glory that was Greece and the grandeur that was Rome."

GOLF

The young men pictured above composed the 1966 golf team for Cumberland. This team represented the school for the first time in many years. Coach Washer planned a schedule for them which coincided with that of the baseball team. The golf team did not post a very impressive record, but they did gain valuable experience. Above all, their interest proved that Cumberland may someday have an athletic program which includes all major sports. Much thanks should be extended to Rick Koss, Tom Bond, Tommy Brown, and John Mack Draper for starting what we hope to be one of Cumberland's most impressive sports.

TENNIS

Another of Cumberland's newer sports is tennis. Having been organized three years ago after many years of dormancy, tennis shows the promise of becoming a most popular facet of the athletic program. Damon Beard served as coach of the netters for 1966. He was often assisted by Dr. Stockton who was at one time a tennis star himself for Cumberland.

Like the golf team, the tennis players followed a schedule similar to the baseball players. Rain forced many of the games to be cancelled, but in spite of difficulties, the team posted a record much improved over that of the previous year. Steve Willis and Verlin Hyder were one of the most favorable matches. Other members were Edgar Anderson, David Houdeschell, Julian Cooksey, Gary Mifflin, Charles Smith, and Mac McMann.

The 1966 team has left a promising future for all interested players to look forward to.

CAMPUS LIFE

Campus blooms with campaign slogans.

To Cumberland spring was a campus of emerald . . . the excitement of field day competition . . . speeches and campaign promises of hopeful candidates . . . the familiar cries of "You're out!" . . . the unforgettable visit of Dr. Rice . . . "Sayonara" to the Sophomore class.

The green leaves of summer.

Baseball season begins.

"And they're off!"

Dr. Laban Lacy Rice entralls the student body with his spring lecture.

“Ungaua, bwana.”

“Well!”

And then it was fall ... rainbow colors on every tree ... the grunts and groans of moving in ... frustrations of registration ... combo parties ... Talent Night ... Sing-out 66 ... Halloween and Sadie Hawkins Day ... a quarter filled with laughter, fun, and enjoyment as each one began to find his place.

It's that time again.

“Strange, it doesn't taste like coke.”

Free drinks for everyone.

"What do you mean you don't have my card?"

"It's spelled M-A-T-H."

"Up, up, with people."

"John Marcia."

"... but I like Oreos!"

"Sorry about that, B. J."

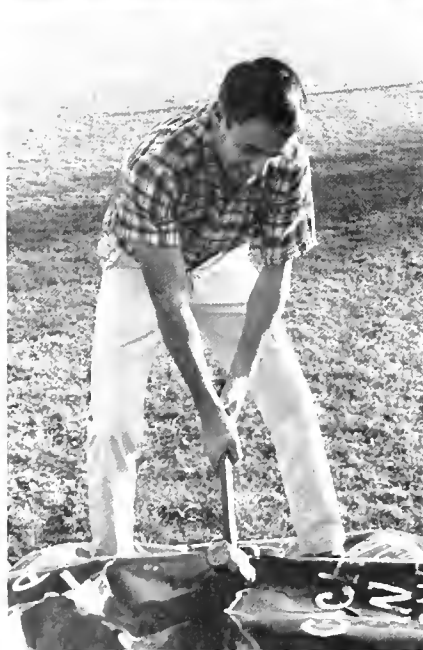

"I now pronounce you man and slave."

"At last I'm a big hit!"

Here comes the ????
Cumberland Demolition Crew

Now maybe they'll do something about the food.

"Stretch" takes a dip.

"Reah, Yah, Dullbogs!"

Viva la difference!

"If you're Moses, who does that make me?"

Sing-Out Cumberland

Fashion Consultant

Gone with the wind!

"Back in the tank, Tiger!"

On your mark ...

Get set ...

Go!

"Good heavens, Lincoln's been shot!"

Use "Dr. Hollister's Hair Restorer"

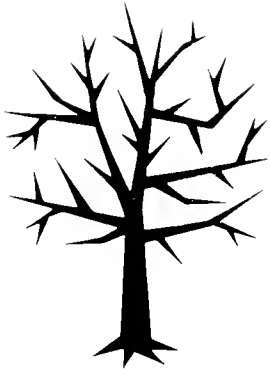

"La la la la It's the sound of music!"

Season closed

Tradition in a cup

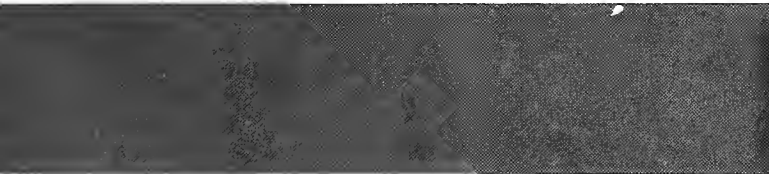

Then the first snow heralded the coming of winter, and we found ourselves involved in the thrilling games of Bulldog basketball . . . pep rallies and bonfires . . . the crowning of a Sweetheart . . . bingo parties . . . the hustle and bustle of the Christmas season . . . winning the Dixie Conference . . . intramural games . . . flag dedication ceremonies . . . that one last kiss under the mistletoe.

"On, King! On, you mighty husky!"

Abominable Snowman

Northwest Passage

Campus Queens??

"What do you mean, do I or don't I?"

"Don't anybody breathe!"

"Anybody got any marshmallows?"

"Sorry, we're all out of olives."

The only good "Indian" is a dead "Indian."

"Just me and you, Gayle; just me and you."

This place reserved

"But where will I wear it?"

"Patsy is our sweetie."

"For me?"

LAST RITES FOR HIWASSEE

"This is Tommy Turtle and Looney Lizard."

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus."

"Ho, ho, ho!"

"Betcha can't eat one!"

"What do you mean it doesn't look like a basketball goal?"

"Q 103???"

DAYS OF OUR LIVES

These were but a few of our treasured moments. Our sole purpose in producing this book was to capture a few of these priceless minutes that they may be cherished when the laughter we shared is gone, and the days of our youth are but a memory. So look back lingeringly to a time that may never return—but never, never forget those precious moments, for . . .

Patsy Skeen
Business Manager

The look on Patsy's face clearly expresses the frustrations that a yearbook's business manager must experience. I would like to take this opportunity to thank Patsy and her staff for the most successful job of finance and advertising in the history of the PHOENIX. They sold more advertisements than ever before and they have created one of the most imaginative ad sections I have seen. If you have skipped through it, go back and take a second look. It is just as important as any other section—maybe more important, for without it there would be no PHOENIX.

Again let me say "Thank you, Patsy, not only for being the best business manager I could have had, but also for being the faithful and understanding friend that you are."

The Editor

IN MEMORIAM

Judge Sam B. Gilreath

EDITOR'S PAGE

There are so many to whom I owe thanks it would be impossible to name them all; but there are a few unsung heroes who have gone above and beyond the call of duty. My staff has been wonderful, but there are those who have done more than their share.

Patsy not only did her advertising section, but also pitched in to help on anything that required an extra hand.

Besides giving us some of the best photographs possible, Julian did the entire Sophomore section when we found ourselves being pressed by a deadline.

Milli did typing, drew layouts, and helped think of the captions for the Campus Life section besides being Honors Editor.

Harry and Judy and their staffs produced some of the most creative sections to be found in the PHOENIX.

But still, there are others to whom I owe my deepest gratitude. They are not staff members; some of them you have never even seen. And yet they are just as responsible for this book's being in your hands as any of the staff or I.

Thank you, Mr. Wendell Deyton, for designing the opening section of the book; and thank you, Mr. Dick Richardson, for being the most considerate and understanding representative we could have had.

Mrs. McDonald and Commander Harris have been so helpful. Without them to encourage and aid us, we could never have made it.

But most of all, I want to thank the Board of Publications and anyone else who was responsible for my being appointed editor. I have joked about it. I have become disgusted. I have been at the point of quitting. But I always knew that I could never stop until this book was finished. It has been my life for the past year. I feel now as if it were a part of me. I hope that you like it because it was created for you and by you.

Thank you all for being so patient and cooperative. I will never forget you or our year together. With this signature I relinquish one of the most memorable experiences of my life. May you enjoy this book with the same amount of work and thought that went into its production.

Nancy Hailey

Mrs. McDonald receives help from Mr. Wendell Deyton of American Yearbook Company.

Mr. Dick Richardson

The legendary Phoenix was reborn from the ashes of its parent. Each new bird was more beautiful than the one before. True to the legend for which it was named, this Phoenix was published with the hope of being the best ever; but it too must join the ranks and leave to next year's staff the job of producing an even greater book. Our work is finished. The task is done, and to the future we leave the 1967 Phoenix as testimony that Cumberland has arisen . . .

*To the glory that was Greece
And the grandeur that was Rome.*
